Mont Saint-Sauveur supports its athletes at the Vancouver Olympics
Be part of this unique moment!

Saint-Sauveur, February 5th, 2010 – Next February 13th and 14th, freestyle athletes will take Cypress Mountain by storm in the mogul competition during the Vancouver 2010 Winter Olympics. This season is particularly special to Mont Saint-Sauveur...

Mont Saint-Sauveur is proud to be associated, for many years now, to freestyle skiing. This season, three local athletes will participate in the Olympics: Maxime Gingras, Alexandre Bilodeau and Chloé Dufour-Lapointe. These were all members of the Mont Saint-Sauveur Freestyle Skiing Club. In addition of course, the undisputed queen of freestyle skiing, Jennifer Heil, the relentless fighter and bronze medalist of the 2009 World Championships, Vincent Marquis, as well as the former world champion, veteran Pierre-Alexandre Rousseau; three athletes we have seen at work at Mont Saint-Sauveur and at Ski Mont Gabriel, host to the Canada Post Freestyle Grand Prix. Exceptional and most promising talent we intend to celebrate.

For this unique occasion, Mont Saint-Sauveur invites neighbouring communities as well as the entire downhill skiing community to come and watch the live broadcast of these freestyle events at the mountain.

See you at Pavilion 70 at Mont Saint-Sauveur February 13th and 14th!
